Beverley Brightman set to hit the right note at Your Horse Live

Grand Prix dressage rider and former four-star eventer Beverley Brightman will be showing off her talent for dressage to music at Your Horse Live this November – and sharing the secrets of her success with the audience.

Beverley, who is well known for her beautifully choreographed displays of dressage to music, will be giving daily demonstrations at the event. The demos will show Beverley working with two pupils to develop a floor plan and music that matches their horse's natural tempo and rhythm.

Beverley will then ride a test on one of her own horses and put into practice everything learnt in the session. Her two precocious young equine talents, De Delux and Gutsherr, who are both on the World Class Performance Plan for 2012, will be the equine stars of the display.

Held at Stoneleigh Park, Warwickshire, on November 13 and 14, Your Horse Live promises to be an action packed two days, with incredible shopping, celebrities and brilliant demonstrations from a range of equine disciplines.

Said Beverley: "I am delighted to be going to Your Horse Live - the visitors and audience there are always keen to learn, and many have a good understanding of dressage training and riding.

"I really enjoy passing on my knowledge and dressage to music is both good fun and thought provoking."

As well as the daily dressage to music demonstrations, Beverley will also feature in a live celebrity Q and A session, where visitors to the show are able to ask a panel of expert riders and trainers to solve their riding problems.

Beverley came into the sport of dressage following a serious riding accident which left her with severe injuries and hardly able to walk. Originally a very experienced event rider, competing at four star level, Beverley was determined to get back in the saddle as soon as possible.

She took up dressage and progressed to Grand Prix level, and now competes internationally. She was selected on to the British Team for the CDIO in Poland in 2003 and was placed 10th in the final Olympic trials for Athens 2004. In the past 10 years she has only once missed competing in the National Dressage Championships.
